"Loved the article on the Top 10 Odd Museums...Big Phone Man loves The Dubliner!"

The Mobile Phone Museum team, Abbey Street

[Awww! And we love the Big Phone Man right back!]

"Since you lads are obviously in love with WAR at Spy and never shut up about it, what's going on down there? I went past last Friday and just saw a bunch of hipsters protesting outside?"

Sarah M, Crumlin

[Hey! Sure, we love WAR, but we got mad love for any club nights doing something a bit different. Anyway, we hear the problems with Spy have been over pay disputes for DJs and promoters, but it should all be sorted out in time for the weekend. See you there Sarah]

"I can't believe that in your 'Fight!' article you left out the ding-dong between Katy French and Claire Byrne. I think this was the point when the late Katy showed she was more than just a pretty face. A stunning model, a journalist taking the moral high-ground and talk about sex toys...right up The Dubliner's alley, no? In her column for the Sunday Tribune, Byrne had a pop at French for talking about her sexual adventures one week and her charity work the next. Katy's response? "Claire, the next time you decide to pick on some dumb animal, pick on one your own IQ size." Classic stuff!"

Sue O'Reilly, Dundrum

[Wow, everyone's a critic this week!]

"Dear Team Dubliner, Please point me in the direction of Liam Campbell's home, because I wish to worship at that man's feet. I've been following his Wines of the Week for the past month and have discovered four new favourites that I would have never even thought to try without the Bearded One's advice. I'm not sure about some of his food tips to go with the wines ("Good with meatballs"?!), but other than that, I've found a new hero. Viva Campbell!"

George Smith, Coolock

"OMG. Love love love Ivana Bacik – any election coming up, she's got my vote – but seriously, the Iveagh Gardens as a top Dublin secret! Come on! It's not a secret! We all know about it, we've all been there plenty of times, we've all read a million politicians describe it as their favourite secret spot. It's not a secret!"

Niamh Molloy, Dublin 1

[Whoa there Niamh, whoa there! More of a fan of Merrion Square we're guessing...]
